

CROATIA, GEORGIA, ALBANIA, N MACEDONIA, SCANDANAVIA, BALKANS, POLAND, RUSSIA, UKRAINE, BLACK SEA, SIBERIA, ARMENIA, KASAKHSTAN - Attachment G

Croatia

i – roko on X: "Exciting news for Romanists - the already-excellent Archeological Museum of Narona in Croatia is getting a new building for the display of its lapidarium! Construction is already underway 🙌" / X ii - Ancient Roman theater sat unnoticed under Croatia city hall — until earthquake iv – Massive Ancient Greek Defensive Wall Unearthed in Croatia

v – a - Twin Babies from the 2nd Century AD Buried Together in the Same Grave of a Roman Villa, Found in Ancient Tragurium, Croatia

b - Archaeologists discover Roman-era twin babies face-to-face burial

The twins' burial challenges the traditional belief that Roman society treated infant deaths with indifference.

Georgia

i - Archaeologists have uncovered intriguing new insights into a Bronze Age "mega-fortress" that dates back to around 3,000 years ago. Researchers conducted a systematic ground and aerial survey of the site, Dmanisi Gora, which is located in Georgia—a transcontinental country that straddles the boundary between Eastern Europe and West Asia in the South Caucasus region.

ii - Drone mapping unlocks secrets of 3,000 yr old 'mega fortress' in the Caucasus iii - Apsaros Roman fort: Guarding a distant shore

The Roman frontier in Georgia follows the edge of the Black Sea. Matthew Symonds visited the remains of Apsaros fort to find out more.

Bulgaria

i - Roman Military Remains Discovered in Bulgarian Town: Excavations Uncover 1st Century Defenses ii - Excavations in Lom, uncovered significant Roman military defensive structures of C1st AD - walls and ditches of Roman defensive structures at 7.5 meters. A fortress wall with three surrounding moats iii – A Roman Settlement Destroyed During the Gothic Raids of the Mid-3rd Century AD Discovered in Bulgaria

iv- A gladiator helmet valued at 3 million euros was returned to Bulgaria

Ukraine

i - Researchers Examine 2400-Year-Old Quivers, Reveals Ancient Scythians Used Human Skin for Leather. This nomadic group of people, known for their gold and warrior capabilities, used the human skin of defeated enemies to make containers of arrows.

ii – Ukrainian soldiers discover 6th–5th century BC burial site during fortification works in southern Ukraine

Romania

i – Archaeologists Found a 5,000-Year-Old Fortress That Nature Had Hidden for Centuries

- Researchers just imaged a 5,000-year-old fortification in the forests of Neamț County in Romania.
- The study used drones equipped with LiDAR technology to capture the likeness of the structure through thick vegetation.
- The fortification likely dates back to the transition from the Neolithic period to the Bronze Age.

ii - Complete Tool Kit of a pre-Roman Dacian Stonemason Discovered iii - Ancient treasure unearthed by metal detectorist roaming field in Romania

After two strenuous days of photographing the coins, he handed them over to the town hall in Letca Nouă.

iv - Metal detectorists find silver Dacian treasure dating back thousands of years in Romania v - Dacian Treasure Discovered in Romania, Possibly Indicating a Hidden Settlement in Breaza vi - Metal detectorist finds ancient Roman coin hoard in Romania

Kazakhstan

i - Stunning 5th-Century BC Gold Bracelet Among 1,000 Treasures Found

N Macedonia

i - For years, archaeologists believed the ruins in North Macedonia—first excavated more than 15 years ago—were the remains of a military outpost built to defend against Roman attacks.

Armenia

i - Ancient Warrior Woman Unearthed In Armenia May Be An Amazon Of Ancient Greek Lore

Siberia

i – Stunning reconstruction reveals warrior and his weapons from 4,000-year-old burial in Siberia. A new full-body reconstruction depicts a warrior wearing armor and holding weapons, all of which were found in a 4,000-year-old burial in Siberia.

Poland

i - Metal detectorists from the INVENTUM Association have uncovered a 2000-year-old Roman sword in the Kraków-Częstochowa Upland ii – Rare Roman ‘sword belt fitting’ found in Polish forest

Slovakia

i –

a - First-of-its-kind ancient Roman aqueduct found in Slovakia b - Facebook

c - A Roman aqueduct lies beneath a Slovak chateau. No one knew until now.

Russia

i – Ancient Elegance: The 2,300-Year-Old Scythian Boot

ii – The Ukok Princess (also known as the Ice Maiden or Altai Princess) was between 20 and 30 years old at the time of her death in the 5th century BCE, and studies conducted in 2014 revealed that she suffered from breast cancer as well as injuries caused by a fall.