

UK - Attachment

Scotland

- i - Scotland's First Warriors - Current Archaeology
- ii – Body found at bottom of Scottish well may be from rare ritual burial performed centuries ago An Iron Age grave has been discovered in the Scottish Highlands. The person was buried within what may have been a ritual well.
- iii – “No One Has Seen Anything Like It Before”: Mystery Surrounds Ancient Stone Structure Unearthed in Scotland

Wales

- i - Volunteer archaeologists uncover tantalising connection between Roman era and Bronze Age, Cardiff
- ii – Roman stones said to be Wales’ earliest portraits displayed for first time The stone carvings, which depict defeated and imprisoned Celts soon after the Roman invasion of Britain, were discovered during excavations in Caerleon in 2010.

England

i - Hadrian’s Wall

- a - Luxury in the Roman commander's bathroom. Now discovered a signed design object from almost 1,900 years ago. From a French atelier on the most remote border of the Roman Empire.
- b - 1,600-year-old Roman guardian spirit relief found hidden beneath Vindolanda barracks
- c – Roman bone gaming die unearthed near Hadrian's Wall
- d – More finds from Magna Roman Fort
- e – An Enamelled Roman Sword Fitting Emerges From a 1,800-Year-Old Layer at Vindolanda

ii - Bath

- a - Student brings spoken Latin back to The Roman Baths with new audio guide recorded by Sir Stephen Fry
- iii - They dig in an ancient Roman settlement and find a mysterious jug with a human face, a still coloured fibula and a rare ring with a coin. Why were they all in the same place?
- iv - Archeology students discover a Roman villa after just four weeks: a mosaic, a gem of the goddess Victoria and a rare mortar emerge
- v - The mosaic floor of the Roman villa in Halberton, in Devon, with the central floral pattern and the geometric decoration made with white, red and black tiles. Credits: © Cotswold Archeology / SHARE Project
- vi - The Roman fort hiding beneath a village near Darlington
- vii - Roman coins among finds along East West Rail route
- viii – A new archaeological study suggests that Roman Soldiers stationed at Ambleside Fort in England’s Lake District once fought off an attack, based on a scatter of ancient sling bullets found around the site.
- ix – The oldest deliberately collected fossil ichthyosaur was discovered in Roman Britain around 1,800 years ago
- x – Brading Roman Villa: Evidence of a Late Roman Massacre?
- xi - Roman's remains found in Lincolnshire garden reburied xii – Thanks to Fiona Forsyth \(author\) for pointing out Roman artifacts in the Museum of Wigan Life including a gold aureus from the reign of the Emperor Vitellius and a chair leg from Pompeii!

xiii – Roman limestone wall unearthed at ancient Irchester site

"We knew that Irchester had substantial walls, but very little was known about how they were constructed, what they might have looked like, the size and how the walls related to building structures within the town.

xiv – [Ancaster gardener phoned mum and said 'we've dug up a \[Roman\] skeleton'](#)

"The CID turned up, they came straight in, they called it an out of place burial.

"That's when they said 'we're gonna have to treat it as a possible murder scene – you've got 10 minutes to pack a suitcase and leave the house'.

xv – High-status Iron Age burials reveal early links to Roman Empire

New exhibition opening at the Museum of Chelmsford on Saturday 18 July. Timeless Treasures: Unlocking the Great Baddow Coin Hoard will explore Iron Age Chelmsford

xvi – 'Dream' Roman mosaic find dug up from Devon farmland

xvii - Metal detectorist finds 'rare' Roman treasures in Buckinghamshire

"The rattle seems to have all of its pieces, including the 'peas' that went inside it, although it is extremely fragile", they said.

"Rattles were used in Roman religious ceremonies, and very few have ever been found in Britain."

xviii - Ancient Roman coin bearing emperor's name found as England rail dig reveals clues The artifact carries the name of Roman Emperor Carausius, a naval commander who was in charge of a Roman fleet based in the English Channel.

xix – London is getting a new museum showing off Roman and medieval fortifications xx - Roman villa with intricate mosaic and bath house in Devon xxi – A Metal Detectorist Discovered Tiny Tiles in a Farmer's Field. A Spectacular Ancient Roman Mosaic Was Buried Beneath the Surface

The polychrome mosaic once decorated a small room in a lavish villa complex. Researchers, students and volunteers have been working together to excavate the rare site in southwestern England xxii - A Metal Detectorist Dug up 52,503 Roman Coins—And a 1,700-Year-Old Secret Britain's second-largest hoard ever wasn't lost treasure—it may have been a gift to the gods.

xxiii – Rare 1,600-Year-Old Phallic Nail Cleaner Unearthed Near Cheltenham

xxiv – The Lexden Ladyand: Examining a rare lead coffin burial from Roman Colchester
A recently discovered high-status burial offers rare insights into ancient funerary practices and Colchester's late Roman past. Carly Hilts spoke to Laura Pooley at a new exhibition about the finds.

xxv - Further finds from Halberton Roman villa xxvi – Scattered Roman bones point to potential fourth-century purge at Brading Villa

xxvii – Ashmolean Museum announces major autumn exhibition exploring the image of Aphrodite

xxviii – Largest coin hoard ever to have been found in Britain and appeared to have the potential to transform interpretations of Jersey's history. xxix - New discovery puts 'women at the centre of early Bronze Age society' For more than 200 years, experts believed that bones discovered near Stonehenge belonged to a "stout man". Now, DNA analysis has helped "rewrite" how we understand this key burial site and revealed that the 4,000-year-old skeleton was, in fact, a woman.

xxx – In the small village of Bartlow, there are the remains of one of Cambridgeshire's most important Roman finds. The village is home to Bartlow Hills, a rare Roman cemetery. Dating back to the 1st and 2nd centuries AD, the cemetery features ancient burial grounds known as 'tumuli'.

xxxi – A Roman Sanctuary Built Over a Bronze Age Burial Mound Discovered in Suffolk That Later Became a Place of Execution in the Middle Ages The Roman Transformation: A Sacred Enclosure xxxii – Archaeological dig returns to site of Roman villa in North Wales

xxxiii – Norfolk Broads hoard yields rare late Bronze Age button

xxxiv – Police probe arson attack on ancient Roman shrine in Chester xxxv – Roman coins and ancient bracelets unearthed at M5 Junction 10

xxxvi – Lost Roman Sea-Life Mosaic Fragment Returns to Corinium Museum

xxxvii – Roman coins and cremated remains discovered in Derby dig xxxviii – Roman hoard uncovered in Buckinghamshire xxxix – Roman villa in Forest may enter public hands for excavation

Plans to transfer ownership of a Newnham Roman villa to public hands could enable a full archaeological excavation.

xl – Away from grand temples, a recycled Bronze Age burial mound in Suffolk became the focus of a Roman religious complex

xli – Antiquities from Cyprus will be exhibited for the first time outside of the country in the autumn exhibition at the University of Oxford's Ashmolean Museum's The Making of a Goddess exhibition starting in October.

xl ii – Huge Roman settlement uncovered at famous A1 junction

Archaeologists discovered the remains of a major settlement which Historic England says pre-dated Roman settlements at York and Carlisle by around ten years.

xl iii – Who Was the Mysterious Gallic Warrior Buried in Britain with a Unique 2,000-Year-Old Helmet?