

UK - Attachment E

Scotland

Wales

i - Geophysical survey in Pembrokeshire has revealed potentially promising evidence of a previously unknown Roman fort.

England

i – Fit for an emperor? Excavating a monumental building in Roman Carlisle Excavations at Carlisle Cricket Club are uncovering the remains of the largest Roman building ever found on Hadrian's Wall.

ii – Exploring West Norwood's magnificent Greek Necropolis Classical Reception

iii – Roman Artifact Discovered in Medieval Burial The Scremby cup was found beside the skull of an adolescent female skeleton in a sparsely furnished grave—one which otherwise only contained two plain brooches and a pair of simple wrist clasps iv – British Gladiators Touring Exhibition. - will be at Dorset Museum from 25 January until 11 May. It will also visit Northampton Museum and Art Gallery, Chester's Grosvenor Museum and Tullie House Museum and Art Gallery in Carlisle.

v - Chalke Valley's first-known Roman villa revealed vi – Roman Circus Colchester seen through augmented reality vii – Searching for Severus: Did a Roman emperor visit Carlisle?

viii – 2,000-year-old RSVP: A birthday invitation from the Roman frontier that has the earliest known Latin written by a woman. Wafer-thin wooden tablet from a first-century Roman fort in the U.K. includes a heartfelt birthday party invitation.